

LOVE CAUSED HIS DEATH

Plainsman Shot by Friends of Girl He Tried to Kill.

San Jose, Cal., Nov. 9.—A passionate though undoubtedly secret love by a simple plainsman for a millionaire's high above his station socially, the jealousy and maddening rage of this same man when he discovers that his love is not reciprocated and that he is about to lose his life's ambition, the shot fired at the girl in a moment of temporary insanity, the organization of a posse which shoots him as he attempts to defend his life, sums up the story of a western romance so dramatic that it sounds more like fiction than life.

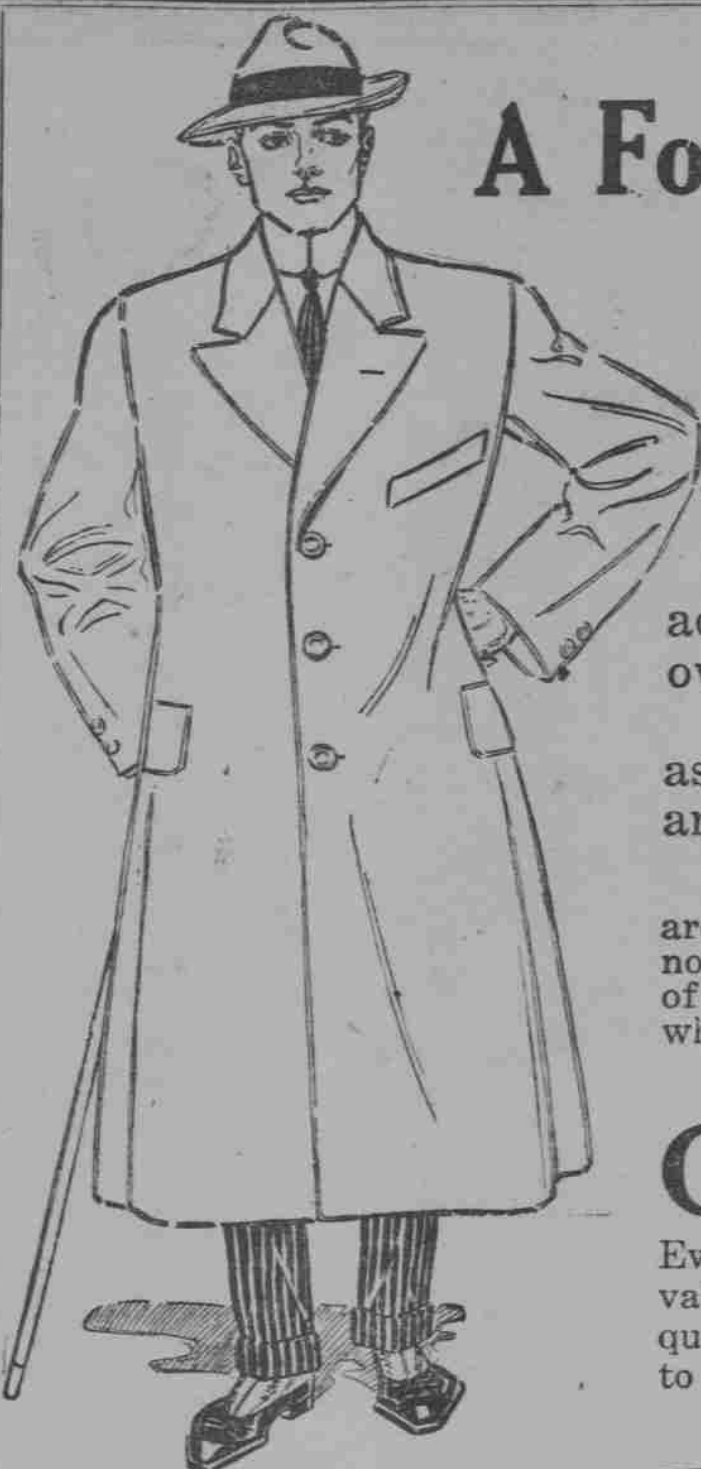

Beautiful Helen Quezada, daughter of a San Jose millionaire, employed as hostess, Manuel Garcia, man of her own years, a stalwart plainsman and one of deep affections and dislikes. Not and she will recover, but the citizens of San Jose formed a posse which gave chase in an automobile after Garcia and when he was run down were forced to shoot him in self defense, as he had taken a stand and would have shot off the captors until his life's blood was sapped away until he actually happened, he was killed by a charge of buckshot from one of the posse.

Some day, perhaps, not far distant, the fair Helen Quezada will marry. The incident will be forgotten by the world, but the crime against humanity perpetrated by a love mad fanatic who in his love of the girl who had befriended him, can never be atoned for except that his death may stand out as a warning to other half-brained cranks of his same type.
